Locke . . . doesn't like "personal attacks."

UNO Head Start Involvement Should End Soon Says Locke

by Dick Ulmer

UNO's controversial involvement with the Head Start Program should come to an end soon, according to Dean Hubert Locke of the College of Public Affairs and Community Service (CPACS).

A $407,300 contract with the Head Start Community Corporation should be one of the last actions in CPACS' year-long "caretaker role." So far, this year has been filled with battles among numerous agencies, some of which have resulted in criticism of Locke and his college.

Locke explained that UNO first became involved with the federally-funded program last fall when the government's Office of Child Development (OCD) decided not to renew its association with Greater Omaha Community Action (GOCA).

Locke said OCD then asked CPACS to take control of Head Start because "OCD thought CPACS was the only institution in the city that had the skill, and a philosophy that agreed with theirs."

He noted that CPACS "accepted with reluctance" because of the program's "time consuming" nature, but also said, "If we hadn't accepted, the program in Omaha would have been discontinued."

Although he adamantly pointed out that he "is not a professional in the field of childcare," Locke feels Head Start wasn't given to the Omaha Public Schools because they would have concentrated on teaching pre-school youngsters in learning skills.

Locke and OCD feel, "The program should develop sensitivity, inquisitiveness, and creativity in low income children — the same kinds of skills that we prize in middle-class children."

To attain those goals, CPACS was to take over the program, evaluate it, recommend transitional changes and long range goals; what Locke called "a general shaping up."

Locke claims, "That's basically what we've done." This fall a corporation consisting of six parents of Head Start youngsters, and five community agency representatives was set-up to operate the program. UNO's role now is limited to monitoring and administrating and Locke hopes the corporation will be given complete control of Head Start by OCD when the contract comes up for review early in 1974.

Complicating the situation is a new early education venture recently kicked off by the Omaha Public Schools. The public school system has decided that it will not participate in Head Start, but will instead have its own program based on teaching learning skills instead of social skills.

UNO's "on the record" position is one of support. Locke said, "We don't begin to have the number of early childhood centers needed, any pre-school program will help. I hope the public schools program will be a success."

Locke did admit that he does not appreciate the "personal attacks" directed at him by some individuals connected with the public schools.

However, he added, "I don't want to get into the business of making personal attacks through the press." Locke continued, "This is a philosophical feud between the Omaha Public Schools and OCD, not between the public schools and UNO."

Money Given for Women's Center

A request for $700 by the Women's Resources Center has been approved by the Student Senate.

The money will be used to operate the center for nine months. According to the Center's directors Kathy Ferguson and Gwen Kaltoft, this will be their last fund request of the school year.

Ferguson, Kaltoft, Chris Schnoover of the Counseling and Testing Center and graduate student Shelagh Emmot defended the center before the Senate Thursday evening.

Schnoover noted that there are over 5,000 women on campus and said, "I get quite a few women at the Counseling and Testing Center."

Education Senator Jim Nicas favored the proposal, but raised several points of contention. First he questioned whether student fees should be used to "push a political philosophy."

Small Turnout Elects Senators and Royalty

Less than ten per cent of the student body elected 16 new Student Senators and the 1973 Homecoming royalty in elections held last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Thirteen hundred and six voters went to the polls to select the representatives from the University's colleges, the University Division and the Freshman Class.

Frosh Highest

According to Election Commissioner Greg Blodig the Freshman Class had the best turnout with approximately 25 per cent voting.

Rich Hood, a biology major recently appointed to fill one of the temporary vacancies on the Senate, kept his seat as one of the Freshman winners.

The other Frosh seat was won by Karen Simpson, a speech/journalism major.

Business Closest

The closest race was for the one vacancy in the College of Business Administration. Mark Houston won the seat with a one-vote margin over Sharon Grohmann, 61-60.

Incumbent Lou Soukup kept his seat in the Senate representing the University Division. Sharon Vecchio won the other spot.

Jim Collen and Jim Beam will be the two new senators representing the Engineering College. Larry Jensen, who was temporarily filling one of the seats until the election, received the most votes. However, he has withdrawn from school for financial reasons — leaving Colleen and Beam to fill the spots.

Maverick Elected

Johnny Harrison, one of two Maverick football players elected to the Senate, will take over one seat in the College of Public Affairs and Community Services. The other slot went to Mike Betz, a transfer student from New Jersey.

All four candidates running on their self-proclaimed "mature" ticket won the four seats in the College of Continuing Studies. Stan Vanoy, Frank Horna, Ken Reynolds and Bob Land took the election away from seven other office-seekers.

Incumbent Jim Sherrets held on to his seat in the Arts and Sciences' race for three spots. Kathy Bergman, a journalism major and a member of the Young Republicans also won a seat representing the college as did Joe Sinkule, a pre-med major and the other Maverick griddier elected to the Senate.

Grad Write-Ins

Several graduate students received write-in votes for the two empty seats in that college. However, because no one applied for the two vacancies, it has not been decided how the spots will be filled.

Only 60 votes separated the top five finishers in the Homecoming Queen election won by Laura Havelka, according to Blodig. Willie Bob Johnson beat out Dan Gleason for the Homecoming King honor in another close race.

Regents Approve Budgets, Contracts, Appointments

The UNO Student Activity Budget was finally approved by the Board of Regents at their monthly meeting last Friday in Lincoln.

The approval of the budget had been delayed due to actions taken by the UNO Student Senate earlier in the year as it attempted to force the issue on who had control of so-called student fees.

The Board Friday also approved a contract naming the Head Start Child Development Corporation as UNO's subcontractor for administration of a majority of Head Start centers and programs operating in Omaha.

The non-profit corporation is governed by an 11-member board of directors who share the power of governing with a policy committee. Both the board of directors and the policy committee draw their membership from present or former Head Start parents as well as representatives from community social welfare organizations.

UNO will audit and review the operations of the new corporation to see that all terms of a federal grant to the Head Start program and other University policies are met.

In other action the Board approved the appointment of

Senate Gets New Blood

Sixteen new Senators have just been elected to a Student Senate which up until now has been inconsistent and ineffective in carrying out any decisions made at its meetings.

The fresh personalities could have a good effect on the Senate if those elected carry on in their new jobs with the enthusiasm they showed as they voiced their desires to be on the Senate.

This energetic spirit will hopefully remain and not turn into the self-pitying cynicism that has surfaced all too often in the Senate.

Some outspoken Senators have recently resigned, tired of butting their heads into a wall that seems to rise each time the Senate tries to accomplish something.

Hopefully the new representatives will more than take the place of those who have left. Hopefully they will take their jobs seriously in surroundings where many of their fellow students think the Senate is a joke.

Although less than ten per cent of the student body voted them into office, the new Senators must remember that they were selected by those who cared enough to become informed and vote. And they must work for all of the student body in spite of those who don't care or don't have the time to worry about how their university is run.

The Senate has to be a strong voice in standing up for the students in dealings with the administration, the Regents and the Legislature.

The Senators must remember that they are the only ones who solely represent the group that is what the University is all about — the students. The administrators and the Regents are there because of the students — not the other way around.

Hopefully the new Senators will put in the needed effort to make the Student Senate the strong, viable voice needed at the time when UNO is moving to bigger, and hopefully better things.

Mickey Mouse

Editor:

The Senate smokes with indignation upon policies of the Administration but they represent no one and there's very little flame.

I've heard much on the apathy of the student body towards senatorial elections but how can one help but feel indifferent to candidates who apparently rely on divine power to elect them to office. I mean, who are these people? The Gateway is kind enough to give a brief rundown on the candidates and meaningless names are plastered on posters lurking in the shadows of UNO's halls but that tells me, the voter, relatively little.

And I'm supposed to get all enthused over empty names on a ballot.

I strongly feel that if the Senate is to amount to anything other than a Mickey Mouse parliament of make believe people, its going to have to try to reach the students and communicate.

Otherwise, the Administration will continue to float along its own lines unchallenged, the Senate will have neat talks at "Neverland" retreats and the student body will continue to grumble to itself and foot the bill.

Michael Witter

Rooms Closed

Gateway:

As of Oct. 11, 1973, the practice rooms in the Music Building are closed to students not enrolled in Music courses.

For music students you must have a practice room permit. Hours will be assigned.

This denies the sovereignty of all students interested in music who choose self-teaching, private instruction, or any musical endeavor not directly connected to UNO music programs.

This is an insult. The practice rooms are placed in an easily accessible area and permit maximum utilization of hours for the student interested in music. It's hard to run home between classes to practice piano.

I can understand the need for Music Majors to maintain access to the practice rooms. However, to place restrictive limits on the rest of the student body is an injustice and constitutes a disruptive blow to the university educational experience.

Correction

Dear Editor:

I may be wrong in assuming that you made a typographical error in printing my letter, and the error may have been mine. The phrase I intended to use, however, was "a clear sense of both priorities and proprieties." It is true that properties is not unrelated to the issue, since there seems to be a question about whose money bought what, but it is my sense that certain proprieties are involved in the manner in which the expenditures were made. It seems to me that the administration has the moral obligation if not the legal obligation to inform the university community of what it deems to be the first priorities for the campus, window dressing or solid academic programs. I would appreciate it then if you would print this correction. Thank you.

several persons to administrative positions at UNO.

Dr. Elaine Hess was approved as Assistant Vice-Chancellor for Academic Affairs. Her appointment makes Dr. Hess the highest ranking woman administrator at UNO.

Dr. Joseph Bettis' appointment as Associate Dean of the College of Public Affairs and Community Service was approved. Bettis' appointment gives him direct responsibility for the six academic departments of the College and he will have major responsibility for the direction of the Law Enforcement Education Administration development grant.

James Leslie's appointment as Executive Director of the UNO Alumni Association and the appointment of Donald Skeahan as Assistant to the Vice-Chancellor for Educational and Student Services were also approved.

The Regents also passed a resolution by which Omaha physicians Marvin Dietrich and G. William Orr lost their part-time University of Nebraska faculty status that permitted them to perform abortions off the Medical Center campus.

The Board voted to restore the two doctors to fulltime faculty positions. The resolution passed stated that the gynecologists will be under all rules, regulations and policies of the board.

Those rules stipulate that NU doctors on fulltime faculty status may be fired if they perform abortions outside NU facilities.

Last July the Regents placed Drs. Orr and Dietrich on a three-quarter time status, removing them from the no-abortion rules.

The two physicians, with their part-time status, have since opened a private office where they perform abortions.

The Regents' action will apparently force the two gynecologists to choose between their private practice and their positions on the NU faculty.

Chancellor Robert Sparks of the Medical Center said at Friday's meeting that he favors continuing the part-time status of Orr and Dietrich.

Resource Center

Kaltoft replied that the center's "primary focus is on planned parenthood," and added, "This has nothing to do with the feminist movement."

Nicas also revealed that several girls had complained to him about being insulted by individuals at the center.

Ferguson answered, "We don't want this to happen, people won't be signing their lives away to the women's liberation movement if they come into the center."

The center's representatives said it is open to both men and women.

UNO Civil Engineering Program Gains Accreditation from ECPD

UNO's Bachelor of Science degree program in civil engineering has been accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development according to Richard Gibson, head of the Civil Engineering Program. ECPD is the accrediting agency for engineering and technology programs in the United States and Canada.

Gibson said achieving accreditation by this agency, which sets standards for curriculum content, faculty and facilities, culminates efforts begun by University administrative staff and faculty in 1964. An accreditation team which visited UNO last spring made the recommendation which resulted in this granting of accreditation.

Requirement Lessened

The accreditation shortens from six to four years the length of time a graduate must be employed in the field before he or she may be licensed as a professional engineer.

UNO has a seven-man civil engineering faculty teaching courses in structural engineering, soil mechanics and foundations, water resources, transportation engineering and construction management. In addition, sanitary engineering courses taught by University of Nebraska-Lincoln faculty are offered in Omaha.

The UNO and UN-L Departments of Civil Engineering have been fully merged since last July 1, providing potential for complete interchange of faculty and students on both campuses. Dr. Edward Wilson is department chairman, and Gibson is vice-chairman for the UNO program.

Day and Night Classes

The department offers both day and evening classes leading to both the Bachelor of Science and the Master of Science degrees in civil engineering. About 190 students now are majoring in these programs at UNO.

Gibson pointed out that civil engineering graduates have excellent employment opportunities and that in the Omaha area starting salaries are in the $10,000 to $11,000 range for Bachelor of Science degree holders without experience. The Master of Science degree requires an additional one to one and one-half years of study and generally attracts a salary of about $13,000 per year.

There has always been a large demand for graduates in Omaha due to the concentration of consulting engineering firms, contractors, and federal agencies needing civil engineers.

Two Senate Seats Still Open

Due to resignations after the past election filing deadline, there are still two Student Senate seats open.

One representative is needed for the Senior class and one in the College of Education.

A secretarial position is also open in the Student Senate. And the following committees have vacancies that need filling: Budget, Rules, Student Affairs, Educational Affairs, Public Relations, and Investigation.

Any UNO student can apply for these positions by contacting the Student Government Office, Rm. 232, Student Center.

C.A.U.S.A. Elects New Officers

On Wednesday, Oct. 10, the Chicano Association of United Students for Action (C.A.U.S.A.) elected new officers for the 73-74 term.

Mary Lou Aguilera was elected president. She is a sophomore majoring in Special Education. Vice-president is Bob Carmona, a freshman majoring in Business. Glenna Wilson, a junior majoring in Spanish, was elected secretary and Manuel Montelongo Jr., a freshman majoring in Political Science, is the new treasurer.

Students interested in obtaining more information about C.A.U.S.A. should contact Mary Lou Aguilera at 733-8320, or Jim Ramirez, UNO ext. 2530.

The next meeting will be held at noon on Thursday, Oct. 18, in Rm. 307, Student Center. All interested students are welcome.

HOME COMING 1973

by Carol Schrader

Homecoming '73 was well packaged and relatively well received.

A perfect football-weather weekend, combined with some hard work and excellent planning, gave UNO a Homecoming well worth attending.

The mood was set Wednesday with the annual flier and poster deluge that accompanies queen campaigning and senate elections.

Thursday evening brought Black Homecoming and a well-amplified evening of black musical expression. Around 200 people came to see three local groups perform and witness the coronation of BLAC Homecoming Queen Carrie Triplett.

The crowd enjoyed the entertainment of "Culture," "Black Empathy" and the "Magnificent Men." Of the three groups, perhaps the latter awarded their admirers with the best staged and most polished product.

"Magnificent Men" were backed up by a five-man ensemble called the "Flying Machine" ... a good-sounding group even by itself.

Authur Hayden, one of the MM, designed and constructed all the costumes for these two groups. This added the finishing touch and made both men and machine as pleasant to look at as to listen to.

Not to be overlooked were the sounds offered by "Culture." The bass guitarist made good use of his instrument and the brass section was as good as that of any local group.

"Culture" also added to the event by back-grounding the mellow announcing of KOWH's personality, Papa Gator, during the introduction of the queen candidates.

Lambda Chi Alpha kicked off Friday's activities with their yearly Watermelon Bust consisting of watermelon rolling and throwing contests. The selection of Miss Watermelon Bust Carol Helms climaxed that event.

Intramurals and a pep rally followed the Per Bowl bust.

A sellout crowd and the smell of marijuana filled both old and new MBSC ballrooms Friday evening for "Weather Report" and "Buddy Miles Express."

Due to the late arrival of one member, the warmup group began two hours late and a restless crowd sat through their numbers impatiently waiting for the big attraction.

"Weather Report" manufactured a modern jazz sound with a hint of Indian influence. Undoubtedly the Near East strains came from pianist-organist Josef Zawinul.

Buddy Miles walked on stage to the cheers of a loyal crowd. Too bad he didn't live up to audience expectations. The Omaha-bred drummer and his "Express" never elevated fans to the heights they had waited three hours to reach.

Audience favorites such as "Them Changes" and "Down by the River" highlighted the program. Although technically well-delivered, the tunes were not charismatic enough to keep most half the audience from walking out before the 75-minute performance was finished.

Bluejay Cross-Country Can't Match UNO Pace

Coach Lloyd Cardwell's cross-country team got UNO off to a good start on homecoming weekend by beating the Bluejays of Creighton University, 20-37. It was the first home encounter for the Mavericks this season and the win boosted their dual-meet mark to 3-2.

Sophomore Jack Schroer took the lead early in the race and finished first in the time of 27 minutes 28 seconds over the difficult 5-mile course at Elmwood Park.

Co-captain Tom Mahr finished second while freshman Bill Melton took the third spot giving the Mavericks a 1-2-3 finish.

Greg Rosenbaum, trailing the pack over the first three miles, came on strong over the last two miles to garnish a fifth place finish.

The Mavericks' fifth man this week was freshman Erwin Clark. The young, ex-marine toured the course in 30 minutes 14 seconds.

UNO was without the services of co-captain Lance Herold and freshman Bob Garcia. Both are expected to return to action this coming weekend when the Mavericks travel to LeMars, Ia., to participate in the Westmar Invitational.

Results: 1. Jack Schroer, UNO, 27:28; 2. Tom Mahr, UNO, 27:41; 3. Bill Melton, UNO, 28:45; 4. Frank Hawkins, Creighton, 29:30; 5. Gren Rosenbaum, UNO, 29:56; 6. George Holland, Creighton, 30:00; 7. Pete McKeon, Creighton, 30:05; 8. Bob Duesman, Creighton, 30:07; 9. Erwin Clark, UNO, 30:14; 10. Ray Pentagulio, UNO, 31:35; 11. Bruce Westerlin, UNO, 32:10; 12. Conroy Jeffries, UNO, 32:10; 13. Doug Bishop, UNO, 33:06; 14. Chuck Donahue, Creighton, 34:25.

Bench Gets Hard

by Dave Coulton

Young, eager and optimistic best describes those men on the Maverick offense with the hardest job of all; sitting on the bench.

"I'll get my chance next year or the year after that," said Tom Jourdan, a freshman tackle. Glen Hills, a freshman guard, voices the same optimism "I feel that I've got a good chance to play next year." Glen has been more fortunate than many reserves. He has played five quarters this year.

Back-up tackle Jerry Buettner regards his bench sitting chores with, "you can't do much better when you're a freshman. Freshman year is a learning year. I'll learn this year and try harder next year."

Discouragement

Most of the reserves admitted there is some discouragement in sitting on the bench. "I played three years, both ways in high school. This is the first time I ever sat the bench," said freshman slot back, Dave Kolar.

"It's not much fun to watch, but it's better than not being on the team," said Jourdan. Fourth string quarterback John Bowenkamp admitted, "It's not the greatest (sitting the bench)," but adds, "I came in late; I'm just lucky they wanted me."

One reason that a lot of players aren't discouraged about not playing may be the Junior Varsity games being played this year.

"It takes some of the disappointment away," said sophomore wide receiver Sam Evans.

Experience Helps

Evans noted the importance of the Junior Varsity games saying, "most players that don't get to play (varsity games) are the least experienced."

Mike Glassman, a sophomore tight end points out, "For some people it's been a year since they've played." Mike feels that JV experience really helps.

Sam Evans best exemplifies the optimism of the group. "I haven't been playing up to my capability (this year)," said Sam, "I'm not going to give up."

Intramural Relay Hold Today

Intramural Athletic Director Bert Kurth will hold a 4-mile cross-country relay this afternoon commencing at 5:00 p.m. in Elmwood Park.

Interested parties should contact Mr. Kurth in the Athletic Department as soon as possible. Entries will be accepted up to race time.

UNO Homecoming a 'Bear' Trap

by Kevin Crolan

Unable to move the ball in the first half, Saturday night, the Mavericks regrouped during intermission and came back strong to hand the Northern Colorado Bears their second straight loss of the season, 15-7.

The win gives the UNO squad a 4-1-1 record for the season while previously ranked Northern Colorado fell to 3-2-0. It was also the Mavericks' first home win of the year.

The game was played under ideal conditions before 3,451 fans.

Down by a 7-3 score at half-time, the Mavericks climaxed a successful homecoming weekend by scoring two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to extend their winning streak to four games while snapping a Northern Colorado winning streak of three wins over the UNO squad over the past three years.

"Played Loose"

"We played it loose in the first half, then applied defensive pressure after the rest period," a jubilant Coach Al Caniglia declared after the game.

"We were jockeying too much of the first half and were burned by Dattilio (UNC quarterback Jerry Dattilio who can run as well as pass). We weren't in serious trouble after returning to our normal defense, even against an outstanding football team."

As in the past, the Maverick defense played outstanding ball, holding the Bears, who had been averaging 31 points a game, to only seven points. Special credit should go to the Maverick secondary who kept Bear quarterback Jerry Dattilio's passing game well under par. Dattilio completed only 10 out of 19 passes for 62 yards.

The offense, which had its problems in the first half, came to life halfway through the fourth quarter behind the passing and running of quarterback Bob Bangtson and Saul Ravenell. The offensive line can be credited with noteworthy play during the fourth quarter as they opened numerous holes allowing the Maverick backs to penetrate the Bear defense.

The first score of the game came late in the first quarter when halfback Mike Dunafon went over from the 1-yard line for the Bears only touchdown of the game. The scoring drive went 55 yards on 10 plays. Mike Williams kick was good and the Bears held a 7-0 lead with 2:27 left in the first quarter.

It appeared that Northern Colorado was going to pass the Mavericks right out of Rosenblatt Stadium during the first half as Bear quarterback Jerry Dattilio completed his first five attempts and was 8 for 12 at the half.

UNO Field Goal

UNO's first score came with 6:18 remaining in the second quarter. UNO moved the ball from their own 33 yard line to the Bear three only to have an end sweep by Saul Ravenell lose 9 yards. With a fourth down situation field goal specialist Frank Golwitzer booted a 29 yard field goal cutting the Bears' lead to 7-3.

The Mavericks started to move the ball late in the third quarter but an intercepted Bangtson pass stopped the drive and set up the Bears final threat. UNC moved the ball from the UNO 43 to the 21 only to have it stalled. UNO took over possession.

On the Mavericks' first series of downs in the fourth quarter Bangtson hit on three passes, two to Frank Golwitzer for short yardage which put the ball on the UNO 40 yard line. On a third and six situation Bangtson hit wide receiver Art Anderson, who made a diving catch, on the Bear 23 yard line establishing the needed momentum.

Saul Ravenell went off tackle for nine yards and Mark Boyer picked up four more putting the ball on the UNC 10. Ravenell plowed to the six and then went over on the next play with a 6 yard run up the middle. Golwitzer's kick failed but the Mavericks held a 9-7 lead with 9:03 remaining in the game.

Final Touchdown

The ball exchanged hands on the next two series of downs which was highlighted by Golwitzer's punt of 43 yards to the Bear one yard line.

Good defensive play by Tom Shawhan and Tom Zimmerman kept the Bears deep in their own territory.

The Mavericks' final touchdown came with 17 seconds remaining in the game. UNC gambled on a fourth and 10 from their own 14 and failed. A personal foul against the Bears moved the ball to the UNC 3 yard line and on the next play Ravenell went into the end zone. Golwitzer's kick failed but the Mavericks led 15-7.

An intercepted pass by Willie Bob Johnson ended the last Bear attempt to score and the Mavericks had their fourth straight win.

Grading Switch Nixed

The Faculty Senate has come out in opposition to a switch in the UNO grading system.

In a meeting last Wednesday the instructors voted 18-2 to send Chancellor Ronald Roskens a recommendation not to switch to the marking system presently being used at UNL. A Student Senate proposal asking for the switch had already been forwarded to Roskens.

Though there has been recent argument about whether the UNL system is actually 4-point, 5-point or 8-point, its effect would be to add B-plus, C-plus and D-plus to a professor's grading repertoire. A B-plus would be worth 3.5 points in the Grade Point Average (GPA) computations, C-plus — 2.5 and D-plus — 1.5.

Among the points raised in the Faculty Senate debate over the issue was the fact that students going on to graduate school would have their GPA re-figured. However, the overriding concern seemed to be that a switch to UNL's system would be a lowering of UNO standards.

Engineering College professor Wilbur Rogers said, "This school has higher academic standards than Lincoln — they may have a better football team — but that's all."

A motion by history instructor William Petrowski, which sought to adopt Lincoln's "complete" grading system, was turned down. Petrowski pointed out that UNL offers pass/fail classes while UNO has a credit/no credit distinction. A "fail" on a UNL student's report card is computed as an "F" for GPA purposes, while at UNO "no credit" doesn't effect grade point.

After another extended debate, the Senate approved the original motion offered by its Student Affairs Committee. Chancellor Roskens has said he will make a decision on the grading system sometime in December.

STROKE CITY — A psychology of feeling good.

We all need love and attention — "strokes." Most of us exist on a starvation diet of strokes, just barely maintaining, because we don't stroke ourselves enough and because we don't really let strokes from others sink in. We seem much more prone to remind ourselves of the negative or deficiencies, and to hear and believe criticism from others.

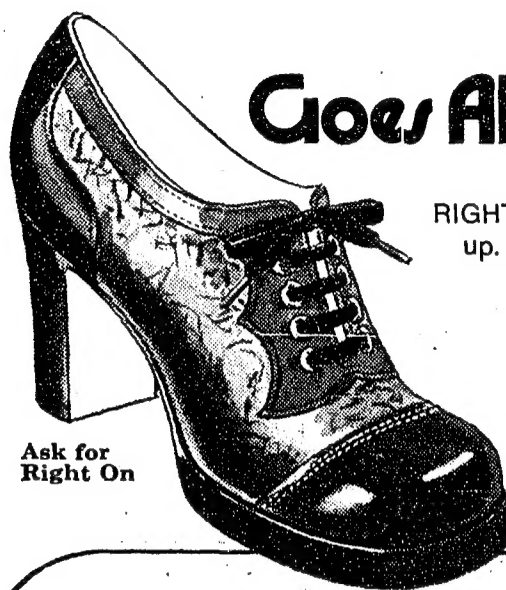

Some of us from the UNO Counseling Center would like to join others in discovering ways to change this. We'll meet Wednesdays from 12 to 1:30 in the Conference Center Lounge (on the main floor next to the library). Bring your lunch if you like. The first Stroke City will be Wednesday, October 10, but if you can't make it then stop by any Wednesday. Come join us for the fun and excitement of growing to like yourself better. ~
